Doing Research: Methods and Practices

Organised by:-

Department of Sociology
University of Rajasthan, Jaipur - 302004

About the Workshop

A well designed research study is a pre-requisite to ensure meaningful results. Many a times even the well-defined researchable problems do not culminate into worthwhile results, and more often than not, the problem lies in the researcher's poor understanding of research process. Thus, it is imperative that a researcher must have sound knowledge of the fundamentals of research methodology to minimize the problems during conduction of research. This is important for better understanding of world around us and critical for policy implications. It's never too late to learn the tricks of the trade but always better to start early. With this view, the workshop intends to inculcate good research habits in budding researchers of Social Sciences.

The workshop, employing the services of experts in the field, will provide the participants intricate knowledge of research methodology. Covering all the steps from identification of the research problem, data collection and analysis, to writing the final report, it will focus on imbibing the principles of scientific approach in research among the participants. In addition to the theoretical perspective to research process, the participants will be introduced to various softwares used for data analysis. The pedagogy will be lectures/presentation coupled with discussions on questions/confusions faced by participants.
