The department is running various specialised courses in cost accounting, cost control, cost management, cost analysis, taxation, and financial management. As there are a number of positions such as chief accountant, financial adviser, management accountant and internal auditor in business and industry, they need sound knowledge of accounting and their applications. To fulfil such objectives, the department has designed the multiple courses, which provide help in decision making in business environment. There are certain new issues in the field of accounting such as Carbon Accounting, Forensic accounting, Corporate Restructuring and corporate Governance. To cover these new dimensions and to impart new knowledge, the department is regularly publishing its bi-annual refereed journal “Accounting Studies” and organising conferences, seminars and workshops.
